

Writer submission guidelines

If you are interested in writing for Fair Trade Magazine, send a formal query via email to editor@cftn.ca (no phone queries or follow-ups, please).

Formal queries should give us an idea of the overall content, specific angle, and proposed structure for the article you intend to write.

We publish articles that typically range from 500 to 1,500 words.

Fair Trade Magazine caters to both a consumer and industry stakeholder audience with the intention of promoting awareness and support for fair trade and international social sustainability initiatives in Canada. While we do not expect that all discussion of fair trade will be entirely positive, criticisms of existing initiatives should focus on offering positive and actionable solutions.

Please note that we receive numerous queries leading up to each edition, and we are unable to print them all. The time required to take an article from query to print is about three months at a minimum.